

HISTORY CLUE

5

In the early 1900s, the first Bartell Drugs stores sold many medicines based on ingredients from local plants and trees. To learn more about Northwest medicine, read page 5 of Bart's Travelogue. If you don't already have a Travelogue, you can find one in the Magical History Tour section at the front of your local Bartell Drugs store — or visit historylink.org/bart.

YOUR MISSION: Many gardens in the Pacific Northwest feature a variety of native plants. Visit a garden, state park or other public space near your home that has a display of native plants. With the help of an employee or by using the library, identify two plants that can be used to treat injuries or heal illnesses and what each plant is used to treat. Complete the following information, then drop your entry in a Bartell Drugs Magical History Tour drop box or mail it to the address below.

Plant #1 _____ Use of plant _____

Plant #2 _____ Use of plant _____

Garden/park name _____

(staple a piece of paper to this clue if you need more space)

Name _____

Age _____ School _____

Name of parent or legal guardian _____

Parent/legal guardian's e-mail address _____

Address _____ Phone number _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Mail entry form to: 2010 Magical History Tour, 4727 Denver Ave S, Seattle, WA 98134
