HISTORY CLUE #9

When George Bartell, Sr. returned from the Klondike, he had enough money to open his first downtown store — called Bartell's Owl Drug Store because it was open all night. To learn more about Mr. Bartell's return from the Gold Rush, read page 9 of Bart's Travelogue. If you don't already have a Travelogue, you can find one at the front of your local Bartell Drugs store — or visit historylink.org/bart.

YOUR MISSION: The Pacific Northwest is home to many species of birds, including owls. Owls are nocturnal birds — they are more active at night. Visit a zoo or nature preserve and find the owl exhibit. Complete the following information, then drop your entry in a Bartell Drugs Magical History Tour drop box or mail it to the address below.

Zoo or nature preserve you visited _____

Two things an owl eats _____

Type of owl in exhibit _____

(staple a piece of paper to this clue if you need more space)

Name _____

Age _____ School _____

Name of parent or legal guardian _____

Parent/legal guardian's e-mail address _____

Address _____ Phone number _____

City _____ State _____ ZIP _____

Mail entry form to: 2010 Magical History Tour, 4727 Denver Ave S, Seattle, WA 98134
