WASHINGTON, May 12, 1961—A washout for the runners in the Seattle Times handicap, which was held today, resulted in a day of exciting and dramatic racing.

The conference included a press conference, a statement from Mayor Edward F. Murray, and a statement from the Seattle Police Department. The mayor expressed his regrets for the loss of life and property and said that the city would work to make the area as safe as possible. The police department announced that they would increase the number of officers on duty in the area.

The Seattle Times handicap is one of the largest and most prestigious handicaps in the nation. It is held annually in honor of the late Seattle Times publisher, who was a prominent figure in the city's history.

Snow Falls on the Rockies

A heavy snowstorm swept across the state of Washington today, causing widespread closures and travel disruptions. The state's Department of Transportation reported over 100 accidents on the highways, including several fatalities.

The snow is expected to continue throughout the week, with temperatures dropping to the single digits. Drivers are advised to stay off the roads and to allow extra time for their daily commute.

U.S. Carriers, Marines Sent To Laos Area

WASHINGTON, May 12—A carrier task force, composed of a lecture in a series of events, is scheduled to depart for the Far East today. The carrier, along with other ships, will be tasked with providing support for the U.S. military operations in Laos.

The carrier is currently anchored in the Puget Sound and is expected to leave port shortly. The task force will be deployed to provide support for the U.S. Marines stationed in Laos, who are engaged in a campaign to secure the region.

In the aquarium, the carrier's captain, Captain John M. Smith, addressed the crew and thanked them for their service. He emphasized the importance of the mission and the need for the crew to be prepared for any challenges they may face.

The carrier task force will be accompanied by an escort group of destroyers and other support ships. The group is expected to arrive in the Far East within the next 48 hours.

The mission is part of the ongoing U.S. military efforts to support the South Vietnamese government in its fight against the communists. The U.S. has been providing military assistance to the South Vietnamese government since the early 1960s.

The carrier task force is the latest in a series of U.S. military deployments to the region. In recent months, the U.S. has increased its military presence in the region, with additional units being sent to support the South Vietnamese government.

The mission is expected to last for several months, with the carrier task force scheduled to return to the U.S. in early 1962.
